QuickPoll

Dental Flossing

Dental plaque is the main etiological factor in periodontal disease. Regular brushing is indisputably the easiest and most effective measure to prevent periodontal diseases. However, it has been reported that toothbrushing alone is inadequate for effective removal of dental plaque, and hence, use of other oral hygiene aids, such as dental floss, need to be emphasized. The aim of this quick poll is to determine the flossing behavior of patients in the National Dental PBRN clinics.
